Investment Commentary

Equity markets performed strongly in May, with the MSCI World returning +5.7%. Clobal markets experienced a rebound, supported by the announcement of temporary tariff reductions between the U.S. and China, signalling an easing of trade tensions and the resumption of negotiations. Concerns over mounting U.S. debt, sparked by a credit rating downgrade and Trump's tax and budget bill, led to a sharp rise in long-term yields.

Microsoft (MSFT US) and GE Aerospace (GE US) were the largest contributors to performance, adding +1.1% and +0.8%, respectively. Microsoft outperformed driven by robust growth in its cloud business, surpassing investors' expectations. GE Aerospace outperformed, supported by optimism around its aircraft engine aftermarket business, underpinned by a substantial order backlog and persistent airline capacity constraints driving elevated engine utilisation.

Thermo Fisher Scientific (TMO US) and Cellnex (CLNX SM) were the largest detractors to performance, detracting -0.3% and -0.2%, respectively. Thermo Fisher underperformed amidst a deteriorating U.S. healthcare policy backdrop, with anticipated drug pricing reforms and potential pharmaceutical tariffs threatening to further constrain R&D budgets. We exited our position in TMO given the regulatory uncertainty, re-allocating the proceeds to Danaher (DHR US) and Zoetis (ZTS US), which we view as better positioned to withstand policy-related risks. There was no company specific news to call out for Cellnex during the period.
